Foreword

The Village of Paw Paw, Illinois was incorporated in June, 1982. The present village board began early in 1980 to make plans for a centennial celebration by appointing a committee to study the feasibility of such a celebration. From this initial action the Paw Paw Centennial Celebration Limited was formed as a not-for-profit corporation to organize and promote the celebration.

Paw Paw, now with a population of 846, was originally settled a few miles south and east of the village. The current site of the town was originally known as Paw Paw Grove as there were fine groves of trees that bore the small fleshy fruit called a paw paw.

Paw Paw is called the "Gateway to Western Illinois" because it is here the old Fort Dearborn to Galena Trail, known as Chicago Road, meets Angling Road. Angling Road was also a main thorough-fare south and west to Moline and Rock Island and the Mississippi River. The two roads intersect in down-town Paw Paw.

The purpose of the celebration was to promote, encourage and foster civic and patriotic activities and to recognize with joy and pride the local heritage. It was also to have a whole lot of fun. The locally managed celebration was a success due to the dedication and commitment of many of the citizens of the village and the surrounding area. These people volunteered their time, enthusiasm and financial support.

This pictorial account provides a glimpse of the many projects and activities that took place when Paw Paw opened its welcome gates to celebrate its 100th birthday.

The year is 1982.

The time is now, the present.

The subject is "Paw Paw Present".

Top left: Edith Kindelberger, Linda Avery, Donna Pfeifer, Emma Truckenbrod, Minnie Hoelzer and Luella Florschuetz displayed the six quilts and one afghan their groups donated to the centennial for money making projects.

Bottom right: Headquarters was a place to register, make purchases, buy tickets and get information.

Insert: Hattie Johnson was also an honored guest.

Below: Judy Robinson, narrator, and Joan Mercer, chairman, of the precentennial style show selected fashions and models for the show.

Right: Tawnya Terry modeled a poor little orphan's dress from a work house of 1900. The orphan girl later became a star of Ziegfeld Follies and Metropolitan Opera fame.

Bottom: Over 350 attended the style show called "Gateway of the Belles" in the High School gym.

Left: Robin Larimore and Michelle Marks modeled dresses worn by Robin's great grandmother (from the Baxter-Schoenholz heirloom collection).

Below: Cathy Safranek, Tracy and Lindsey modeled the late 1890's clothing (Zeman - Ramer collection). Anissa Larabee, Kari Sondgeroth, and Janet Wennmacher wait their turns.

The oldest house in town owned by John and Ethel McLaughlin was opened to the public on the July 18 house walk.

House Walk

The Sunday afternoon house walk featured the homes of the late Arthur (Squire) Wells built in 1892, the Celesta Shannon home (known as the LaPorte house); the Roger and Dorothy Moorehead home which contains many heirloom articles collected, restored and cherished by the family; and the John and Ethel McLaughlin home (the oldest historic home in the village). The walk ended with a tea at the recently remodeled and expanded home of Ervin and Agnes Safranek.

At a reception the First Lady contestants were honored and the pageant ticket sales began. The committee was Judy Svendsen, Carol Hart, JoAnne Cole and Jan Siemers.

Kay Kuchel demonstrates a literal cake walk.

Dorothy Wiley passifies the cake walks ticket holders with a piece of edible cake.

The Judge organized Kangaroo Kourt as the crowd gathered across from the centennial headquarters. Chuck Marks, Rodney Anderson and Judge Smith.

Neighboring mayors and local citizens were arrested and tried in Kangaroo Kourt the weeks prior to centennial. Judge Smith arrests Compton's Mayor Val Fishbach and Ron Wagner. He's assisted by jailer Mark Wennmacher and prosecuting attorney, Rodney Anderson...

Both Eric Tarr and Curt Burnett were victims of the Kangaroo Kourt. Don Schlesinger looks on helplessly.

Bill Grove pleads before the Kourt. But, alas, he too was punished.

Even the ladies were arrested. Here, Judy Priellip pleads the case for herself and her fellow defendants. An unsympathetic crowd watches.

Bart Hopkins kidnapped Mary Jo Hatley, Anita Ross and Eileen Spears before they were put in jail at the Kangaroo Kourt.

Paw Paw Mayor Rex Rhea was arrested on trumped-up charges.

The Horseshoe Inn driver, Jerald Grevengoed, drives the get-away wagon with the kidnapped gals Bruce Hopkins assists in the hold up.

Judge Smith was even arrested. Above, he pleads his case to the crowd. The crowd decided his fate.
